

Invites you to talk by Dr. Lindsay Warren

In Commemoration of Kristallnacht (Night of Broken Glass)

From Death to Life: The Role of Theater in Post-Holocaust Healing

Date: Tuesday, November 7, 2017

Time: 4:15 p.m.

Where: Learning Center, Room 28
(under the Rose Memorial Library)

Free & Open to the Public

Dr. Lindsay Warren, adjunct lecturer at the College of NJ and a history teacher at Hunterdon Central Regional High School

After liberation, survivors in the Bergen Belsen Displaced Persons camps participated in a Yiddish theatre group called the Kazet Theatre. This group helped to re-establish social bonds and create a sense of community, essential steps for recovery from trauma. The Kazet Theatre bridged survivors' memories and hopes for the future.

Supported by:

The Jackie Berke Fund / The Sylvia Holder Fund /
Hedy and Jay Brasch
(in memory of Elizabeth, Alexander and Eva Ellenbogen)